Global Studies

Globalization is producing a growing interdependence of states, economies, societies, cultures, and people. The Summer School in Global Studies focuses on globally shared issues such as global economies and inequalities, major trends that affect contemporary geopolitics and geo-economy, development and environment.

Module A - Globalization tendencies and its evolution

Module B - Climate change: policies and implications

Module C - Country Profile Workshop

Students enrolling in all three modules will receive credits following evaluation during the Country Profile Workshop.

Period: 3- 21 July, 2023

Classical Chinese and Japanese

The Summer School in Classical Chinese and Classical Japanese/Kanbun is unique in its kind. Organised in collaboration with Princeton University, it offers two tracks of comprehensive, grammar-focused instruction taught by Faculty members from both Ca' Foscari and Princeton.

The programme is designed especially for students who wish to develop their linguistic expertise for graduate study in any discipline of premodern China or Japan.

Period: 3 – 28 July, 2023

Contemporary Art & Curatorship: from documenta to the Biennale

In partnership with Uni Kassel (Kassel, Germany), this summer school provides students a unique insight into the management of two of the world's most renowned contemporary art exhibitions, La Biennale di Venezia, and documenta, with two separate but interconnected modules in Kassel and in Venice.

Module 1: "Inside Arts" (Uni Kassel, Germany)

Module 2: "Curatorship of Contemporary Art"
(Ca' Foscari University of Venice, Italy)

Period: 17 June-14 July, 2023 (2 weeks + 2 weeks)

Where we are

Our campus is at Palazzina Briati, in the historical centre of Venice, close to Ca' Foscari's main campus, and to local transport.

Arrival

Summer School students coming from abroad receive comprehensive pre-departure arrival information and assistance with the visa process, as well as access to University libraries (open late), cafeterias, wifi, and more.

Housing

Students will have the possibility of requesting accommodation in a double or a single room at one of two student residences in the Venice city center at a reduced price.

Living in Venice

Built on a cluster of small islands in the middle of a lagoon, Venice is one of the world's most unique cities. Whether by water or by wandering, moving around the city is a pleasure, with something to look at around every single corner.

Visit its world-renown museums and art galleries, admire its majestic churches and historical monuments, take a boat to Lido beach or to one of the many islands, celebrate the city's traditional festivals... immerse yourself in history, in culture and in beauty every day of your studies.
