

The Faculty organizes and implements its educational programs in accordance with the following policies, based on the policy for conferring degrees established by the Faculty and the policy on the organization and implementation of curricula set by Kobe University.

1. The Faculty offers the Liberal Arts Course subjects in order to develop a broad and deep education and a comprehensive capacity for judgment, to cultivate a rich sense of humanity, and to achieve the common aim of learning for all students at the University.

2. Students will acquire through study of the classics, a profound understanding of the humanities as the accumulation of human cultural activity and implement it through social dialogue, thereby cultivating humanities-related knowledge. To equip students with this expertise, the Faculty offers the following specialized courses and other courses deemed necessary.

- In order for students to acquire a wide range of knowledge through training to identify and pursue one's interests academically; first-year seminars, basic specialized courses, and the Liberal Arts Course subjects are offered.
- In order for students to acquire the necessary understanding to enable them to discover humanities-related issues and challenges by studying the classics as an accumulation of human intellectual activity; basic specialized courses, specialized courses, and the Liberal Arts Course subjects are offered.
- In order for students to acquire the ability to engage in social dialogue which enables communication and collaboration beyond cultural, linguistic, and academic barriers; specialized courses, and the Liberal Arts Course subjects are offered.
- In order for students to acquire the deep insight required to posit specific academic challenges as universal, intellectual challenges; graduation thesis and related courses are offered.

3. Classes shall be conducted through lectures, seminars, experiments, practical training, or a combination of these.

4. Assessment is carried out in a combined and comprehensive manner in line with the learning objectives, including through written exams, assignments, presentations and active participation.